

CYBERSECURITY PANEL

How Technical Talent Will Determine the Future of Democracy

January 18, 2018 | 12:00–2:00 PM

Room 290, Stanford Law School

There is a critical need for technical talent in the public sector to keep our systems secure and save lives. Students and interns with Army Cyber Command join panelists from the military and academia to discuss how to engage the best young technical minds to support national security.

- Brigadier General Joseph P. McGee, U.S. Army Cyber Command
- Chris Lynch, Defense Digital Service
- Herb Lin, Hoover Institution, Stanford University
- Katy Brown, '19 (Computer Science)
- Alex Zaheer, '19 (Computer Science)

To register, please visit:

<http://bit.ly/cyberpanelJan18>

Moderator Ted Koppel (ABC News' Nightline) is the 2018 Mimi and Peter E. Haas Distinguished Visitor. His recent book, Lights Out, evaluates potential ways for America to prepare for a cyber-catastrophe.

Stanford | Cardinal Service

Cardinal Service is a bold university-wide initiative that elevates and expands service as a distinctive feature of a Stanford education.

cardinalservice.stanford.edu

Cardinal Quarter • Cardinal Courses • Cardinal Commitment • Cardinal Careers